

Tracing your Electricity Supply Pension

We receive a large number of enquiries from former employees of the electricity industry seeking to identify where to apply for their deferred pensions under the ESPS.

The process of claiming is simple you need to contact the Pensions administrator of your The starting point is establishing which of the many schemes is responsible for payment. Since privatisation many businesses have changed name, been sold and even gone into liquidation.

If you know the current successor the process is simple, notify the pensions administrator of the scheme with your name, address and NI number and they will provide the necessary paperwork . We have posted a list of current scheme administrators. If you do not know the successor the process is more complex. The ESPS records have now been transferred to the the governments pension tracing service. If you type your details into their search engine - the engine is very specific so you may need to try variations of the company name
